

Vendor Profile for Bloomington Drosophila Stock Center (BDSC)

The BDSC is part of the Biology Department at INDIANA UNIVERSITY. Indiana University (IU) and the BDSC are nonprofit organizations under the United States Internal Revenue Service Code 501(c)(3). The BDSC collects, maintains, and distributes genetically defined stocks of the insect Drosophila melanogaster to qualified research and teaching institutions. Grant support from the National Institutes of Health (USA) subsidizes your fees. The BDSC ONLY accepts stock requests submitted via the BDSC online order form via the customer's BDSC account (<https://bdsc.indiana.edu/Account/Register>).

Note: the Bloomington Drosophila Stock Center (BDSC) and the Drosophila Genomics Resource Center (DGRC) are not the same organization and operate independently, though both are part of IU's Biology Department.

Purchase Orders (POs) are made out to INDIANA UNIVERSITY. The supplier address may list either the BDSC physical address, the IU business address, or Accounts Receivable (AR) remittance address. Preferred is the BDSC physical address with the email address flypurch@indiana.edu as the PO recipient (for the BDSC ONLY). Other vendors/suppliers at IU receive their own POs and may have different remittance addresses. Supplier addresses other than those listed below may result in denial of your PO. LIST YOUR ACCT/ORDER NUMBER ON YOUR PO FOR EFFICIENT AND ACCURATE POSTING.
